WIFE'S DEATH THE CAUSE.

Stroke of Paralysis Ended
Suffering of the Afflicted
Duke.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The Duke of Teck, who died yesterday evening, had been insane since the death of the Duchess and had been constantly under restraint. Previous to her death he showed signs of insanity, but subsequent to her demise became fully developed. His death was hastened by an attack of paralysis, which came on suddenly. The general feeling in court circles is that it was a merciful release, though it puts the finishing touch on the gloom overshadowing the royal family, for now there is no prospect of any social season in London, as the court, necessarily, will go into mourning, which so many leading families are already wearing. No members of the family were at the Duke's bedside when he died, but the Duke and Duchess of York arrived at White Lodge, Richmond Park, this afternoon.

WOMAN WITH TWO HEARTS.

Miss Ella Gates Lived Nearly Twenty-Five Years, but Was Long an Invalid.

ONTARIO, N. Y., Jan. 22.—A post-mortem examination has just revealed that Miss Ella Gates, who died last Friday at her home in this vicinity, had two perfectly developed hearts. Miss Gates was in her twenty-fifth year. She never enjoyed robust health, and since her early teens had been an invalid. The slightest over-exertion brought on complete prostration. She died while writing a note to her brother, leaving a sentence unfinished. Her most singular symptom, which was noticeable during all her life, had been a heart beat that at times was so faint and confused that it could not be counted, while again it would be regular and of normal rapidity, but so heavy that it shook her entire frame. The knife revealed a small but perfectly formed heart an inch and a half higher in the chest than that ordinarily is found. When it was removed the surgeons were amazed to find another heart just below and back of the first. The office of the second seemed to be to feed the first, as its ventricles were comparatively thin-walled, while the large blood vessels communicated directly with the lungs, but with the other heart.

WOULDN'T GET MARRIED.

So John Daly, Heir to $2,500 a
Year, Led a Beggars' Life and Died a Pauper.

"I give and bequeath unto my son, John J. Daly, the income from the double flat-house, 305 East One Hundred and Twenty-second street, $2,500 a year, on condition that he marry a certain woman and settle down." This was a clause in the will of Contractor Daly, of 308 Madison avenue, who died three years ago worth $150,000. The son declined the proffered bequest on account of the conditions. He preferred wandering about from saloon to saloon as a dicker, known as John, the "Monk," until last New Year's Eve, when, in his thirty-eighth year, he died destitute in Hallett's field. His body is in Potter's field.

San Francisco Preacher Resigns Wants to Dance and Be a Good Fellow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—The Rev. James C. MacIntyre, the young pastor of the Oakland Congregational Chapel, has resigned the ministry. "A man must be a hypocrite and overlook hypocrisy in others to remain in the ministry and be successful," said he in tendering his resignation. "I believe in dancing," he continued, "and a large list of other things that are tabooed by churchmen. If I am to be a preacher, I must be a good fellow and take it. When I meet a friend on the street I like to slap him on the back and say 'Hello there, Bill,' in a good, hearty voice. All this is looked upon as wrong by everybody when it is done by a clergyman, and I am sick of the whole thing."

PRAYER FOR KENTUCKY.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 22.—The clergymen of Frankfort have decided, owing to the political crisis and the Colson-Scott tragedy that next Tuesday should be set apart as a day of humiliation and prayer. Services will be held in the Episcopal church morning, afternoon and evening, and all the churches in the city will unite in the observance of the day. Prayer will be offered that men of both parties may act with wisdom and moderation, that the danger of further bloodshed may be avoided.

From Society to the Stage.

Owing to her success in reciting "The Absent-Minded Beggar" at Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's entertainment Saturday evening last, Carol Birdall, daughter of Judge Birdall and grandniece of Daniel Webster, has been offered an engagement at Koster & Bial's. She is a young society woman and has just returned from London, where she recited "The Absent-Minded Beggar" and other drawing rooms. She does Kipling's poem in khaki costume with Sir Arthur Sullivan's music.

GIRLS PREFER WORK IN SHOPS OR HOMES?

"Why do girls spurn good homes and rather choose to slave in shops, or to fall into vice for a livelihood?" asked "Girl Hunter" in a letter to the Evening World. "I can't get a reliable nurse for $10 a month, yet I hear that women die or steal to get a crust. Every girl in a shop or behind a counter works harder and has less comfort, but I cannot get help in a cheerful home. Where are the girls who are about to be driven to dishonesty or vice to live? Can't I find just one before it is too late?" Many letters have been received in answer to this inquiry. Here are some:

Well-kept nurse.

Slave in a shop.

Girls, Try to Live Correctly.

To the Editor of The Evening World: I am glad somebody has started a discussion on this very important subject. I will offer my experience, as it will undoubtedly prove interesting to the lady who wrote the letter. I can candidly say I have tried very much harder to get just such a position as she offers than she has tried to get somebody to fill it. I am a refined, well-educated woman, twenty-one years old, a graduate of a select school. I have been brought up in the best manner, and until four years ago, had everything my heart could wish. Then a crash came. My father failed and, although he never asked me to seek a position, I saw the necessity of doing so, having four smaller sisters. So I started with a light heart and great hopes. As I am an excellent musician and thought myself fully capable of holding a position as governess or companion, I sought such an engagement for weeks. I had the best of references, yet met no success. At last, although I dislike doing it, I was forced to accept a position as salesgirl in a big store. My letter will, perhaps, show this lady that some girls do try to make known their willingness to live right and to do what is creditable to themselves as well as to all womanhood, but just as with her, are unsuccessful. I am sure there is not one honorable girl with truly good instincts who would not prefer a home with refined surroundings and congenial companionship to the slavery of a store-girl's existence. I for one would gladly change my position for the one offered if I could, and consider the change a blessing.

What Some Servants Demand.

To the Editor of The Evening World: "Girl Hunter's" complaint is only too true. I have offered as high as $20 a month and have not met with success. Perhaps it would be well to mention a few of the demands made upon me last week when I was about to engage a cook and laundress. I was asked to show the sleeping apartment as though I was running a boarding-house. I was informed that 130 breakfast was entirely too early—decent people never ate before 9 o'clock. The necessity of my husband's presence at the office was to enter into the question. Is company allowed and a friend once in a while for a meal? "Have I a sitting-room for the help? They couldn't think of receiving their wear white dresses? What days and evenings has the cook?" And at last it agreed that my baby will wear dark dresses to make the same and that breakfast hour will be changed, the maid will try it, and if I suit her and agree to pay her salary when she goes out—as I live in an inconvenient neighborhood—she will

HAS LOST WIFE 37 TIMES.

But Pelless Turns in an Alarm and
Is Confident She Will Come Back.

Although his wife left him thirty-seven times and again ten days ago, William Pellens, of 20 Hudson street, despairs not. "She will come back; she knows I love her," he said last night when he called at the West Thirtieth street police station and asked Sergt. Daly if he had seen aught of her. He said she is "hand-some and weighs 50 pounds." "I might have known better than to marry her," wailed Pellens. "I cannot satisfy her reckless demands for jewelry and other things. That's what a man gets for marrying a handsome woman. But she'll come back." Mrs. Pellens is said to be dark, with rosy complexion, brown eyes and was known in black velvet when last seen. A general alarm was sent out for her and Pellens left the station rejoicing.

HE ANTICIPATED DEATH.

Body Found in the Street Early Yesterday Believed to Be That of James W. Lucky.

The police are investigating to-day the suspicious death of the man found at Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street at 2 A. M. yesterday. From papers in his possession he is believed to have been James W. Lucky. One note contained a request that, in case of death, the body be "shipped to my sister, Mrs. George C. Lawton, New Hamburg, N. Y."

WOMAN LEAPED TO DEATH.

A Pneumonia Patient Plunged
Four Stories from Her Window.

Delirious from pneumonia Mrs. Mary Bettman plunged from the window of her home on the fourth floor of 34 Garret street, into the back yard, early this morning. She was unattended at the time and nobody saw or heard her fall. A ten-minute search of the yard with some garbage discovered her at 6:30 A. M. She was still living, but moaning so low that she could scarcely be heard six feet away. An ambulance surgeon was sent for, but the woman was dead before he arrived. She had dropped a distance of forty feet.

Aged Stonecutter Takes Carbolic
Acid and Kills Himself
This Morning.

Because he was old and out of work Ferdinand Jung, a cutter, of 213 Johnson avenue, Williamsburg, committed suicide this morning by taking carbolic acid. Jung was sixty-one years old. He lost his job two weeks ago because he could not work fast enough.

BEATEN WIFE TRIED TO DIE.

Mrs. Rosemerer Procured Warrant for Husband's Arrest, Then Drank Carbolic Acid.

Wife-beating for the one, attempted suicide for the other were the charges when Mr. and Mrs. John Rosemerer were arraigned in the Bow Street Police Court, Williamsburg, to-day. Mrs. Rosemerer last Thursday got a warrant for her husband's arrest on a charge of assault. She then attempted suicide with carbolic acid. When the policemen went to arrest the husband they found the wife all but dead. They hurried her to a hospital, where her life was saved. The couple lived at 18 Cold street.

ONE WHO IS TYRANNIZED.

To the Editor of The Evening World: I have to make a living, so I am working in a store. I would gladly change my position for a more comfortable one as a hired girl. They would have more consideration for a horse or a dog. Some of them respect a girl to lift and drag things about that would tax a strong man. It seems to annoy them to see a girl sit down after she has done all the housework her duties really require. More consideration on the part of mistresses and make housework more attractive to girls who have to earn their living. S. A. M.

Girl Came All the Way from Poland to Marry
Her Lover.

Amelia Benigalska, who had come all the way from Poland to marry a man who had fallen in love with her picture, committed suicide this morning by taking strychnine.

Yesterday she learned that the man was going to marry some one else. Amelia was a beautiful girl. A year ago, when in Warsaw, she sent her photograph to her married sister, at 41-12 Montrose avenue, Williamsburg. Boniface Kummay, who boarded with the sister, saw the picture and fell in love with it. A correspondence was commenced. Finally Boniface induced the girl to come to America and paid her passage.

The wedding was to have been held at once, but Amelia postponed it. Boniface chafed and urged her in vain. She persisted in the delay. This continued for almost a year. Last night a neighbor dropped into the sisters' flat for a little gossip. "Have you heard," she said, "that Boniface Kummay is going to get married next Sunday?" "Who to?" asked Amelia. "She was told a girl in Manhattan. When they went to call her this morning she was dead."
